BCFED responds to ride-hailing applicants on necessity of respecting employment standards

British Columbia's Passenger Transportation Board (PTB) is reviewing applications filed by prospective ride-hailing services to operate in BC. The BC Federation of Labour was given the opportunity to review and respond to applicant responses to our previous submission. The PTB has the opportunity, and responsibility, to assess ride-hailing applications with a view to upholding the Province's labour regulations and securing minimum rights and protections for drivers.
